NOTURNO DE UM PIANO (first part of project Soif) 2005

The piano as an emblematic symbol of aristocratic music that delves subverted into mass culture and the loss of memory. The video shows the real image of a Steinway grand piano and a pianist (Gabriela Geluda) floating in the sea and slowly sinking. Putting a piano out to sea and filming it implies countless variables, unthinkable situations that are compatible with the theory of chaos.

Although the video becomes a fixed element later, it will undergo unpredictable interference again when used in real time, such as in the installation format with projection on the lid of the piano, taken from the sea and already damaged by barnacles, in an interaction with interventions by performers. Thus, it transforms the way it is understood within each look or listening, never becoming a closed work.

The electroacoustic music for the video Noturno de um piano is based on fragments by Mozart.

Awards / Grants Guggenheim Fellowship

CAVALCADE AND FALL OF A DIVA

(video conceived as a virtual set for the opera As Malibrans – 2000)

This video brings us back to the intensive and self-destructive life of 19th century's legendary soprano – Maria Malibrán

RITO DE PASSAGEM (1992)

A sound/performance installation for musicians, actors, dancers and electroacoustic music presented with an art installation by Frans Krajeberg.

Presented at ECO-92, Museu de Arte Moderna, Rio de Janeiro, 1992

A BOLHA (reminiscence of Fata Morgana – 1987)

Installation of an ongoing compressed air inflating bubble.

The bubble depicts birth and rebirth, representing the cycle of life, within which a dancer moves like a fetus. The space-time bubble concept is an allusion to the thinking of physicist Stephen Hawking, according to whom our universe, with its planets and galaxies, is inside an enormous bubble, from which other smaller bubbles occasionally escape, giving rise to new universes.

SOUND GALLERY (1972)

An installation based on ecology and Olivier Messiaen involving multi-projections, sound and reflective panels.

TEATRO PROBABILÍSTICO

Presented as an interactive multimedia piece based on combinatorial analysis, with the following instructions for the public: "take off your shoes and walk over the score/map of this imaginary city. Your sound experience will be richer if you are not alone."

A bank of eighty-seven sounds was conceived for the occasion, which, on being activated by sensors under the audience's feet, are superimposed in random, infinite combinations, in a constant search for a new and unpredictable soundscape.

Planetarium Events

Since 1982, Jocy de Oliveira has been creating multimedia pieces specially designed for Planetariums, integrating electroacoustic music, performers, texts, multi-projections of slides, video film, planetarium effects, lasers, and holography. They represent a multidisciplinary effort to integrate music, art and astronomy with ecological awareness.

Different from a one-dimensional focus (i.e. a stage) the use of a planetarium becomes a multidimensional and even multisensorial stimulus for the audience, offering impulses from different sources and at different levels.

SOLARIS (2001)

Music and text by Jocy de Oliveira

In homage to Stephen Hawking and inspired by his theories, the composer wrote a poetic text, which became the theme for this Planetarium event. As a development of Music in Space, Solaris was specially designed for the new Rio de Janeiro Planetarium, making the most of its advanced technology and visual possibilities (65 slide projectors, a 75mm film projector, and 4 video projectors, among others).

APAGUE MEU SPOT LIGHT (1961)

Concept and script by Jocy de Oliveira

Electronic music specially composed by Luciano Berio with assistance from the author

The first performance of electronic music in Brazil, Apague meu spot light was conceived as a theater of sound and images without linear sequence. The main female character is devoid of story and the world around her becomes merely a setting without meaning. Superfluous objects float around her, electronic voices torment her, and she evokes classical theatrical characters, trying to fit into their stories, but they judge and abandon her.

Destitute, she tries to understand, make sense of things, or create a sequence, but comes to the conclusion that it is impossible because around us there are only silent spotlights, flickering on and off... At the end of the play she turns to the back of the stage and says: "Turn off my spot light."

The actors' voices were recorded and edited in Rio and processed at the Studio di Fonologia di Milano, with Luciano Berio.
